

Dingo was trained in basic obedience in the Oakland County Teacher's Pet program by a resident of Children's Village.

Dear family of Dingo,

Before I started this program, I was extremely scared of dogs. I wouldn't want to be close to them at all because I thought that all dogs were the same. I thought they were all mean and that they all bite. My 1st dog in the dog program was a dog named Juice. He used to be very energetic, bad around other dogs and would never listen. By the end of the time, I taught him focus and how to sit. I really liked that dog. But Dingo, I've fallen in love with her. She's shown me a new meaning of love. I never thought that I'd be so close to dogs like I was to Dingo. When I first saw her I automatically fell in love. On orientation day/meet and greet, she was the 3rd dog I went to. As I was walking toward her, she practically jumped into my arms. Although, she might seem very energetic and that she doesn't listen, she does. At 1st she didn't seem like she cared, but around the 2nd time I saw her it clicked. Dingo has a really hard time at first with focus, like all other dogs who go in a shelter and get a new name, but she's learned that now. Dingo was very easy to work with and she was very willing to listen to me and understand. I think that the perfect family for Dingo would be a loving, caring family who will show her attention. That's all she ever really wants, love and attention. Being with Dingo has brought me so close to the dog world. Never did I ever think that I could come so close to a dog that I could lay with them and cuddle so close to them. Dingo and I have a very strong bond. I love her. It will be very sad to see her leave me. Dingo will make you feel like you have a new heart. She will suck in your love and bring you so close to her in ways that you never imagined. Dingo will amazingly open a new door and a new meaning of the word "dogs" for you. I have taught Dingo how to paw. My partner and I have practiced a lot with her on her focus, name, sit and paw. When we first met her, Dingo's paw would just dangle in the air when you fed her. So we started to teach her paw and she's so well at it now that she automatically does it. When you tell her to sit, the paw goes right up. When you bring out a treat, her butt goes flat and her paw flies up. I am very impressed with Dingo on how fast she's learned her name. Dingo can catch on to tricks and other things very fast. She's very quick at comprehension and understanding. Dingo is a very beautiful dog. She is very loving and caring. She just wants to be loved and cared for herself. I believe that Dingo will be very good in a home and that she will have a very beautiful life!

A Note From Teacher's Pet:

You adopted Dingo! PLEASE let us know how she's doing!!!

It means a lot to the kids to get an update on the dogs they have cared for and worked so hard with. They always ask how the dogs are doing in their new home. It would be great to give them some positive feedback. Thank You!

Thank you so much for choosing adoption to find your new furry family member! If you have any training questions please contact us at our e-mail below. We already know Dingo well and would be happy to help. All our best!!!
